THE NATIONAL SPIRITUALITY AND MENTAL HEALTH FORUM

The Forum is holding a Seminar on:

Voices from detention

“Spirituality, Faith and Trauma”

We would love to see you...

The experience of immigration detention is often a dehumanising and uncertain process which adds to the trauma already experienced by those fleeing war and persecution.

In this session Sr. Margaret Baxter who is the detention co-ordinator for the Jesuit Refugee Service will discuss the role that spirituality and faith can play as a source of hope and strength in the experience of detention and of being a refugee. She will be accompanied by ex-detainees who will provide their own unique testimony.

This session is relevant for all of us working to address the mental health needs of those who seek sanctuary as a result of the trauma of war and persecution.
